

Medical Journal of Therapeutics Africa

Volume 2 Number 1
January 2008
Tuberculosis

WHO ARE WE?

L Atherly is a medical writer. She is a Doctor of Philosophy in immunology and virology (Univ of Massachusetts) and a Bachelor of Arts (summa cum laude) in biology (Lincoln University, Pennsylvania) and she has been a student in the USP Biomedical Writing Programs. Her graduate and post-doctoral (Univ Pennsylvania) research focused on developmental T cell immunology, viral immunology, vaccine development and microbial immunology. She is first author in journals including Immunity and J Immunol. E-mail: latherly@usip.edu.

J Bolognese is a clinical research associate at a contract research organization. She is a Bachelor of Science (cum laude) in biology from Villanova University, and is working towards becoming a Master of Science in biomedical writing at USP. She is a member of AMWA. E-mail: jbolognese@usip.edu.

KL Carter is a freelance writer based in Princeton, NJ. He is a Bachelor of Arts (Harvard Univ, Massachusetts) working towards a Master of Science in biomedical writing at USP. Of African American and Afro-Caribbean heritage, he is interested in the unique health problems facing people of the African Diaspora. He was a Philadelphia Inquirer staff writer for 13 years, and still contributes to the paper as a jazz and world music critic. He is a certified personal trainer and exercise physiologist who fought in the World Sumo Championships in 1994, 1996 and 1997, and his greatest joy and challenge is helping teach judo, sumo and Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu to his 2 young sons. E-mail: kevinl.carter@verizon.net.

K Dabas is a pharmacist, health economist and medical writer, vice-President of ISPOR (International Society of Pharmacoeconomics and Outcomes Research) Student Chapter. She is Bachelor of Pharmacy (Maharishi Dayanand Univ, India), MBA (Bharti Vidyapeeth Univ, India), MS (Pharmacy Administration, Univ Sci Phila). She has worked in the Indian and United States pharmaceutical industry. E-mail: kaveridabas@yahoo.co.in; kaveri.dabas@gmail.com.

T Frederick is a registered nurse working in research at the Cleveland Clinic in Ohio. She has over 15 years of experience in medical, surgical, and critical care nursing. She is a Bachelor of Science in nursing, magna cum laude from Univ Akron, Ohio, and is working toward becoming a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing at USP. E-mail: tonyam@sbcglobal.net.

SJ Dodgson is Professor of Biomedical Writing and Director of the Biomedical Writing Programs at Univ Sciences in Philadelphia, and a member of AMWA, EMWA, DIA and RAPS. She is a Bachelor of Science (Honours) in physiology and biochemistry and a Doctor of Philosophy in physiology and pharmacology (Univ New South Wales, Australia). She was an academic scientist at Univ Pennsylvania 1978 to 1995. She has written over 60 published articles, a book of reviews on CO2 handling in the body, and a book of short stories. Website: <http://emeraldpademelonpress.com>. E-mail: s.dodgso@usip.edu; sjdodgsonphd@yahoo.com.

KH Golebowski is President and Principal Medical Writer of Write Rite, Inc, a New Jersey-based Biomedical Writing, Research, and Editing Company. She is a Bachelor of Arts (honors) in biology (Kean Univ, NJ) and is working toward becoming a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing at USP. She belongs to AMWA, the Editorial Freelancers Association, Freelancers Union, and Internat Soc for Medical Publication Professionals. Ms. Golebowski is a recent inductee of Cambridge's Who's Who. E-mail: kareng323@earthlink.net.

J Han works as a medical writing and editing contractor in the pharmaceutical industry. Since 2006 she has worked on primary and secondary publications of clinical trials in immune-mediated inflammatory diseases, specializing in pulmonary diseases. She is a Bachelor of Arts in English from Pennsylvania State University. She lives in Philadelphia and is working toward becoming a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing at USP. E-mail: mailto:jhan878@mail.usip.edu.

S Harris is a graduate student working toward becoming a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing at USP and a Master of Arts in Theology at the College of St Catherine (St Paul, MN). She is a Bachelor of Arts in Professional Writing (Metropolitan State University, St Paul, MN). E-mail: sharris@mail.usp.edu.

TM Janus has worked in the pharmaceutical industry since 1991, first in analytical chemistry and virology laboratories. Since 2001 she has been a regulatory writer and has prepared documents and quality modules for vaccines marketing and biologics. Ms Janus is a Bachelor of Science in biology (veterinary medicine) from Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture, Doylestown, Pennsylvania and a Master of Science in biomedical writing at USP. She is Adjunct Assistant Professor of Biomedical Writing teaching drug marketing regulations and runs a small farm for rescued animals. E-mail: tracy_janus@merck.com.

Medical Journal of Therapeutics Africa

Volume 2 Number 1

January 2008

Tuberculosis

WHO ARE WE?

CL Jaseph is currently employed at Ultradent, a privately owned company in South Jordan, Utah, that develops innovative dental products. She is a Bachelor of Arts and is working towards becoming a Master of Science in biomedical writing at the University of the Sciences in Philadelphia. She has a regulatory affairs certification (RAC) from the Regulatory Affairs Professionals Society E-mail: cljaseph@yahoo.com.

K La Point is a molecular biologist in the Nutrition Department of Univ of North Carolina - Greensboro. She is a Bachelor of Science in molecular biology and a Master of Science in bacteriology from the University of Wisconsin - Madison. She completed a certificate in regulatory writing in Dec 2007 from the BioMedical Writing Programs at Univ of the Sciences in Philadelphia. E-mail: kathleen.lapoint@gmail.com.

A McGeary is an editor at a medical communications company in Radnor, PA, and previously worked as a technical writer for Merrill Lynch. She is a Bachelor of Arts in English, with a concentration in business and technical writing (Univ of Delaware). She is and is working towards becoming a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing at Univ of the Sciences in Philadelphia. E-mail: amanda.mcgeary@gmail.com.

R O'Donnell is a medical writer specializing in communicating scientific data to the general public. She is a Bachelor of Science (honors) in biology and a Master of Science in education (Vanderbilt Univ). She holds a Graduate Management Certificate from Wharton Business School (Univ Pennsylvania) and a Regulatory Writing Certificate (Univ of the Sciences in Philadelphia). She worked in academic research at Vanderbilt Univ and Univ Pennsylvania 1978 to 1983, and has worked in the pharmaceutical industry in sales, marketing, and regulatory writing since 1984. E-mail: rebeccajodonnell@comcast.net.

AZD Pekala is a neuroimmunobiologist and freelance regulatory and publications medical writer fluent in German. He is a Bachelor of Science from St Joseph's Univ (Philadelphia), a Master of Science (biomedical writing) from Univ Sciences in Philadelphia, and adjunct assistant professor of biomedical writing. He is a member of AMWA. Web-site: emeraldpademelonnpress.com. E-mail: ayngesus@hotmail.com.

EC Pierce is a supervisor of a histocompatibility laboratory at the Hospital of the Univ Pennsylvania. Ms Pierce is a Bachelor of Arts in biology (Rutgers University, New Jersey) and a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing Program at Univ Sciences in Philadelphia. She is trained in regulatory and publications medical writing and is a member of the American Medical Writers Association. E-mail: epierce@usip.edu.

E Raible is a freelance writer and editor living around Philadelphia. Bachelor of Arts in print journalism from Temple University and a Master of Arts in broadcasting, telecommunications and mass media from Temple University when he worked as a producer and editor at a highway traffic broadcast information provider. Mr Raible has also written for and helped administer political websites before his graduate studies at Univ of the Sciences in Philadelphia, where he earned a certificate in Medical Marketing Writing. E-mail: eraible@usip.edu.

K Steinriede is a freelance medical writer, journalist and author based in Philadelphia. His journalism has appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer, New York Times, Washington Post. He is the author of the third edition of Best Places to Stay: Mid-Atlantic (1998, Houghton Mifflin). He is a Bachelor of Arts in French and Journalism (San Francisco State Univ) and is working towards becoming a Master of Science in Biomedical Writing at USP. E-mail: ksteinriede@usip.edu.

S Viswanathan is a pharmacist, a Bachelor of Pharmaceutical Sciences from the University of Mumbai, India, a Diplomate in Creative Writing in English from the Indira Gandhi National Open University, India and a Master of Science in Pharmacy Administration from Univ Sciences in Philadelphia. She is the president of the International Society of Pharmacoeconomics and Outcomes Research (ISPOR) student chapter at USP. She worked in India as a UNICEF intern during summer 2007. E-mail: shilpa_v7@yahoo.com.

J Walters is a registered nurse working as a clinical safety specialist at a pharmaceutical company in Illinois. Her background is in neonatal intensive care nursing. She is a Bachelor of Science in nursing from University of St. Francis, Illinois; and is working toward becoming a Master in Science in Biomedical Writing at USP. She is a member of AMWA. E-mail: jwalters@mail.usp.edu.